University of Roehampton London

Employer: Roehampton Education Services Limited (Part of the University of Roehampton Group)

Job title: Student Success Tutor, Part time 0.6FTE

Salary: £40,205 to £44,008 pa pro rata (plus access to bonus scheme)

We are looking for a Student Success Tutor to join our School of Continuing Education, supporting students to succeed in their studies and achieve positive academic outcomes.

Working with students, academic colleagues and University support services, you will play an important role in promoting student engagement, continuation, completion and progression. You will monitor and analyse student engagement and performance data to identify students who may need additional support, provide individual guidance and coaching, and coordinate appropriate interventions. You will also facilitate small-group workshops and contribute to improvements in the student experience.

The Role

You will have experience supporting students or service users through guidance, coaching or advice, ideally within an education setting. You will be an effective communicator, confident working with people from diverse backgrounds and able to build positive relationships with students and colleagues.

You will also be comfortable working with data, identifying trends and presenting findings clearly to inform practical action. Well-organised, approachable and proactive, you will bring a commitment to inclusive practice and helping students overcome barriers to success.

This is an opportunity to make a meaningful contribution to student success across a diverse portfolio of foundation, pathway and continuing education programmes.
