U.S. News & World Report, 2026

With the campus located in Northern California, the University of the Pacific offers world-class instruction in a supportive and challenging atmosphere.

"I chose Pacific because of its high ranking and small classes, and because of the California weather! The campus is beautiful; and the professors really care about my success. Pacific is like a family — lots of people from different places. ... It's far from where I'm from, but it's my second home."
